

Wednesday, April 15, 2020

Lovely bedtime verse~ A star for you to wish on, a sun so warm and bright, a moon for you to sleep on, Happy dreams,
A hug goodnight.

Before daybreak these next several mornings – April 14, 15 and 16, 2020
– watch for the moon to sweep by three morning planets: Mars, Saturn and Jupiter. You'll be looking along the ecliptic, the annual path of the sun –
and the approximate monthly path of the moon – in front of the constellations of the zodiac. Look southeast to south from the Northern Hemisphere. Look pretty much east from the Southern Hemisphere. For all of us around the globe, the moon is waning now, appearing closer to the sunrise each morning.

<https://earthsky.org/tonight/moon-3-bright-planets-before-sunrise>

Consider the coming mornings rising early for some alone time to try and spot the moon at twilight, consider setting an intention for the day.

Wednesday, April 15, 2020

Activity Chalk Scapes and Cardboard!

Some links on ideas
for chalk and
cardboard fun
with your family.

Get creative at your home

with simple materials and let your Childs imagination lead the way!

<https://happyhomefairy.com/summer-chalk-photo-ideas/>

<https://lifeasmama.com/10-creative-cardboard-projects-that-kids-will-love/>

